

I'm not robot

Continue

Bovada presidential odds 2016

Ballots have been counted, with Donald Trump visiting the White House as president-elect on Thursday. It was a wild election campaign and an even crazier election night as the results came in and showed that the polls, predictions and odds would not hit this. Paddy Power in the UK was so wrong that they paid out Clinton's bookmakers in advance, costing $4 million by the time it ended on November 8th. As the polls closed and results began to arrive on election night, the books continued to update their outlook even as official results poured in. And while the bookies made a mistake before election night, they were willing to call Trump the front-runner earlier than CNN or any other news channel was willing to declare things for Donald. From just before 8:00 p. m. Eastern time to midnight when the numbers came off the board, here are some of the biggest swings in the odds odds.OddsShark has been tracking. Looking at these figures is clear, even in politics, you can never count the underdova. In a year that has seen big payouts for undersea bookmakers on everything from Brexit, to Leicester City, to Villain's Victory in March Madness and even the Denver Broncos' undermud victories in Super Bowl 50, Trump's victory (when he started as a 25/1 bet to win the presidency) fits into this unpredictable year in betting. Archived Articles*UPDATE: Votes are now being counted across the United States. The president's prospects have been taken off the board. Just before 12 midnight (ET) Trump is listed as the -2000 front-runner, with Clinton's odds at +1000. We reached the final day of the 2016 presidential campaign. Clinton's chances of being the next president have increased with that news, but her lead in the polls has not recovered to the level of two weeks ago when she was ahead by double digits. The latest national polls now have Clinton and Donald Trump neck and neck among likely voters. Clinton remains the frontrunner to be the next president among bookies, but by a smaller margin than at the end of October. On the morning of the election, the odds shifted slightly again. The gap between the two candidates has narrowed, but Clinton remains the 5/1 favorite over Trump. Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton +1000Donald Trump -2000Odds from November 9 on BovadaOdds to next U.S. PresidentCandidateAug 5Oct 30Feb 1Mar 4May 9June 22Aug 18Sept 26Oct 25News 1Clinton-110-110EVEN-200-275-320-450-215-550-275Trump+2500+500+190+200+225+260+325+175+350+190Other +2500 +330 0+5000 ----- President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -550Donald Trump +375Other +1000Odds from November 7 in Bovada-----Hillary Clinton chances of becoming the 45th president of the United States. President of the United States looked pretty solid going into the final part of the campaign. However, reports Friday afternoon that the FBI is investigating Clinton's newly found emails have changed that mood and drastically affected the outlook. With just two weeks left in the campaign, Clinton was the -550 favorite for Donald Trump's +350 odds. After the new e-mail news was announced, the former secretary of state is now listed at -300 with Trump odds rising to +200. As far as -300 fact goes, the books are waiting for the books to give Clinton a 75% chance of becoming president compared to an 85% chance at -550. For Trump, the change increases the implied probability from a 23.5 percent to a 33 percent chance of winning the November 8 election. The news ended the investigation after FBI Director James Comey informed congressional leaders Friday. In a letter to Congress, he wrote: The FBI cannot yet assess whether this material can be significant and cannot predict how long it will take us to complete this additional work. While reaction to the odds has been swift, the effect this news will have on Clinton's poll numbers - and the overall impact it will have on the election itself - is yet to be seen. Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -300Donald Trump +200Other +2500Odds from -----28. As of Friday morning, Clinton was listed as the -450 favorite by Trump odds at +75. The third and final presidential debate is now in the rearview mirror and while voting is still weeks away, the end is in sight. Wednesday's debate, hosted at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, was the last time voters would see Clinton and Trump on the same stage together and the candidates did not disappoint. Most pundits believed that if Trump was going to change the odds of becoming president, it would have to be in the final debate. Through questions about abortion, gun control and the Supreme Court, the Republican nominee was ready and in place. Moving into the second half of the debate, Trump was more combative with many in the media latching onto his comment that he could not say whether he would accept the results of the November 8 election. The bet on the presidential election on BovadaClinton's performance was similar to the last two debates with an additional effort to push Trump on his stance on Russia and his economic plan for America. And while the only polls that end up being important are the November 8 votes, the former secretary of state continues to increase her lead in the polls and on coefficients. With two weeks to go until the end of October 25, Clinton's outlook remains steady at -550 as Trump's outlook improved slightly to +350. Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -550Donald Trump +350Other +330Odds from Tuesday 25 October 2017 The final debate, Clinton's odds rose from -500 before the debate while Trump's number dropped slightly from +350. Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -550Donald Trump +350Other +30-----00Odds from 20 October 2017 OddsShark will release updated odds for the president once the new numbers are back on the board. Tuesday marks just three weeks until Election Day 2016, and in a presidential race as wild as this one, many can't wait to get to the voting booths. Both candidates have one last hurdle before voters give their opinions: Wednesday, October 19th, 2017. The odds on who will be president remain relatively stable this week, with Clinton's odds changing slightly from -650 to -600. The second presidential debate included a lot of shouting, including moderators Martha Raddatz of ABC News and Anderson Cooper of CNN, who repeatedly had to remind both candidates that their time was ahead or to stay on topic. A bet on the BovadaPolling presidential election after last week's debate showed Clinton extending her advantage over Trump and the odds proving the same. The day after the debate, the odds moved from -400 to -425 in Clinton's favor. At the end of the week, and on the eve of the third and final debate, Clinton was listed with her best odds of the entire campaign cycle at -650. Option Two moved further down the board back to a 25/1 chance that someone other than Trump or Clinton would be the next POTUS. The third and final debate is scheduled for Wednesday, October 19 at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. The next President of the United States Clinton -500Donald Trump +350Other +2500Ods from October 19th in Bovada-----The presidential outlook changed significantly in the days before the debate after footage of Trump bragging about his vulgar actions toward women became the top story of the weekend. At one point Sunday, Clinton was the frontrunner for the -500, her best chance of being president. In the minutes before the debate began, the former secretary of state came down to the -400 front-runner with the Trump coefficient remaining at +325. The biggest change Sunday was the prospect of the Second Candidate becoming president option, which climbed from +2000 to +750 in less than 12 hours - a likely response to calls for Trump to step down and public opinion that the Republican nominee could still quit or be kicked off the list. In a debate full of insults and interruptions and only minimal policy debate, it's hard to say how much this debate will shift public opinion. The updated outlook changed only slightly in Clinton's favor after the second presidential debate. The third and final debate is scheduled for Wednesday, October 19 at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -425Donald Trump +325Other +1000Odds of 9 in Bovada-----*UPDATE: The second presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the odds when new numbers are available. Just before the debate began, Clinton was the -400 favorite with Trump set at +325, and option Two jumped to +750 from +2000 earlier in the day Sunday. The second presidential debate of the 2016 election season is Sunday, October 9 at Washington University in St. Louis, MO. It's only been two weeks since the first presidential debate, but a lot has happened in that time, including some big movement in coefficients of who will be the next president. Before the first debate, Democrats were -215 front-runners to win the White House with Republicans set to +175 underdogs. Immediately after the first debate on September 26th, that gap widened to -250 for Clinton and Democrats with Trump and Republicans set to be +180 underdogs. Heading into the second debate tonight those numbers have moved even further, giving Clinton the widest gap between her and Trump since they both became their party's nominees. With the general consensus in the media that Clinton won the first debate and release earlier this week about the damaging sound of Trump having a lewd conversation about women in 2005 and 2006, The New York Times reported that Clinton had no idea about women. Heading into Sunday's debate, Clinton sits as the -500 frontrunner, her best odds yet and an implied 83 percent probability of being elected president on June 8. Props are also available for Sunday night's second debate and include OVER/UNDERS on how many times the Russians and China will be uttered and the question Will Trump invent another word?. The third and final debate is scheduled for Wednesday, October 19 at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. The next president of the United StatesHillary Clinton -500Donald Trump +325Other +2000Odds from October 9 in Bovada-----The highest presidential debate of the 2016 election season is in the running. For those wondering who won the debate, the answer seems to depend on who you ask. But if the odds have anything to say about it, it seems Hillary Clinton was the winner of her first meeting with Donald Trump. Before the debate, Democrats were -215 front-runners to win the White House with Republicans set to be +175 underdogs. That gap has widened since the new outlook hit the board after Monday's debate. Trump appears to have shut down Texas, which has the second-highest number of electoral delegates. Potentially the most The state could be Florida. Although Clinton has a solid lead in the polls, fiveThirtyeight.com the odds as a high 16.3 percent chance of prevailing in the election. Both Clinton and Trump are likely to spend a lot of time in the Sunshine State to secure victory. Trump was trending in the United States, so while much of the media analysis, from CNN to fiveThirtyeight.com to Vox, claimed that Clinton won the debate, it's clear that Trump didn't lose among their most trusted supporters. The next presidential debate will take place Sunday October 9 at Washington University, Missouri. The debate props are now available for the second debate, and include OVER/UNDERS on how many times Russian and Chinese will be spoken and the question Will Trump invent another word?. The third and final debate scheduled for Wednesday, October 19 at the University of Nevada in Las Vegas. The next president of the United StatesHillary Clinton -333Donald Trump +240Other +3300Odds from October 7 at Bovada-----Post debate numbers Democrats are raising odds over The Republican. Party to Win 2016 US Presidential ElectionsEmrocatic Party -250Republican Party +180Other +1200Odds from September 27 at Bovadi-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. The early odds have Democrats expanding their advantage to +250 instead of the Republican +190. With the 2016 presidential election less than two months away, Hillary Clinton appears to hold a steady lead over Donald Trump. Clinton has a 46 percent to 41 percent lead over Trump, according to a recent poll conducted by the Washington Post/ABC News. Bet on the presidential election in BovadaHowever, the numbers began to tighten in key battle states ahead of the first presidential debate on September 26th. While Clinton still has a healthy lead in registered voters, likely voters are beginning to truly narrow the gap. One of the more interesting figures coming out of this poll was that six out of 10 say that no candidate is reliable or fair. This probably means that both candidates will have to make some ground before the election to try to change their image in public. Immediately after the conventions, the Democratic Party had -450 to win the election, but that line has now largely dropped to -215. Republicans, on the other hand, went from +325 to +175. Party To Win 2016 U.S. Presidential ElectionDemocratic Party -215Republican party +175Odds from September 26 in BovadaLooking for more presidential action? Watch the props for the debate for the 1st debate on Monday, September 26 -----S national conventions everywhere, it's time to look toward the road to the 270th President of the United States. Democratic nominee Hillary Clinton polled heavily as we move forward in the election campaign, which seems to give her a pretty solid lead over Republican nominee Donald Trump. However, the polls are far from a guarantee of how the election will actually play out and we have yet to see if Clinton's recent surge remains a constant or if it is simply a small bump after the conventions. Clinton appears to have a significant advantage in several key states, including California and New York, the states with the most and third-largest electors to be awarded. Trump appears to have a significant advantage in several key states, including California and New York, the states with the most and third-largest electors to be awarded. Party to Win 2016 US Presidential ElectionsEmrocatic Party +450Republican Party +325Odds from August 18 at Bovada-----S Republican Convention in full swing, we see the presidential outlook begin to tighten. After an extended period of Hillary Clinton holding a dominant lead - by odds - Donald Trump has begun closing the gap. Leading the Republican convention, Trump climbed to +200 from -185 in less than two weeks. In that span, Trump named Mike Pence as his running mate -- a move that just a month ago wasn't even on the radar. Pence - who described himself as Rush Limbaugh on decal - gives Trump an insider with a lot of experience working within the government. As Trump's prospects grew, the Clintons fell. The Democratic nominee saw her odds go from -340 to -240 between June 6th and 9th. There is still much speculation about who Clinton will choose as her running mate. 2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -240Donald Trump +200Other +1200Odds from July 19 at Bovadi-----Emrocatic and Republican conventions are just around the corner and Hillary Clinton is set to win the presidential election. The Clinton campaign was reassuring when the FBI publicly stated that the former secretary of state's use of her personal email was careless but not criminal. With the whole email thing behind us - please let it be behind us - Clinton jumped out as the massive -340 favorite to become the next POTUS. Trump returns to +280 according to Bovada. Perhaps those figures will see a drop after Trump bluntly said he believes Saddam Hussein did an effective job of killing terrorists. Although Trump said Hussein was the 'villain,' you wonder who could run against both Clinton and Trump? We have all the updated outlook for you right here.2016 U.S. presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -340Donald Trump +280Other +1400Odds from July 6 at Bovada-----United States Presidential Election 2016 now has its presumptive candidates. Donald Trump - the billionaire media mogul - will represent the Republican Party, and Hillary Clinton - the former secretary of state - will represent the Democrats. Trump has been locked up as the presumptive nominee for a month after Ted Cruz and John Kasich suspended their campaigns 24 hours apart in early May. Although Clinton has amassed enough delegates to win the nomination ahead of the Democratic convention, opponent Bernie H swore to take his campaign all the way to Cleveland. The senator from Vermont lost the last primaries in the District of Columbia on March 14th. This is certainly one of the most interesting presidential races of all time from a betting perspective with Clinton as the odds-on favorite to become POTUS pretty much from the beginning as Trump was a wild chance when he announced he was running. After June 14 - the last primary of this campaign - Clinton was a -300 favorite to win the presidency with Trump coming back at +240. 2016 US Presidential Election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -320Donald Trump +250Other +2500Odds from July 22 at BovadaOdds on Next President of the United StatesCanadaating Oct 30Oct 31Mar 4May 9June 22Aug 18Sept 26Oct 25Nov 1Clinton-110-110EVEN-200-275-320-450-215-550-275Trump+2500+500+190+200+225+260+325+175+350+190Sandens+1200+1000+350+2000+3300 Cruz +4500+3300+2000+2500 Other +2500 +3300+5000Odds on the Next President of the United StatesCandidateOct 30Oct 6Oct 12Oct 17Oct 21Oct 25Oct 29Nov 1New 2Clinton+240+250+180+160+130-190-225+110-180-117Trump+900+900+375+200+160+165+185-130-220+107Sandens+750+750+900+350+650 Cruz +1000+625+225+550 Other+1000+625+225+550 Recent Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -220Donald Trump +190Bernie Sanders +180Odds from June 2 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1 June at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMay 17KentuckyDemClintonMay 17OregonDem/RepSandens/TrumpMay 24Washington StateRep-----*Monday's presidential debate is now over. OddsShark will update the president's odds when available. Yes, there are two more primaries before greater California on Tuesday - plus several other state - primaries, but Democratic candidates are hitting the golden state election campaign hard. Hillary Clinton was originally scheduled to campaign in New Jersey this week, and primaries in that state will take place on the same day as California, but the former secretary of state's staff decided she must actively work in - what could be - the most important state of the primary season. Clinton's opposition to the Democratic nomination - Bernie Sanders - has been traveling California for nearly a month as she holds numerous rallies trying to attract support. Clinton has approximately 250 delegates led by Sanders - not including superdelegates - heading to Cali. With a ridiculous 546 delegates on the line, winning the state could go a long way to determining who will represent the party in the upcoming presidential election. On June 3, Clinton is the frontrunner for -2000 to claim the nom with Sanders falling to +900. Not only is Clinton the front-runner for the Democrats, but so is she. odds-on fave to become next POTUS.2

be easy though as Clinton was a New York senator from 2001. to 2009.2016 US presidential election - Next US PresidentHillary Clinton -225Donald Trump +500Bernie Sanders +700Ted Cruz +700John Kasich +1600Odds from 14 October April 15 in Bovad US presidential election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -700Bernie Sanders +400Odds from April 14 in the US presidential election in Bovada2016 - Republican presidential candidateDonald Trump -125Ted Cruz +150John +700Odds from April 14 at BovadaUpcoming BovadaUpcoming Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerApril 5WisconsinDem/RepSanders/CruzApril 8ColoradoRep/CruzApril 9WyomingDem/CruzApril 9New YorkDem/Rep-April 26ConnecticutDem/Rep-April 26DelawareDem/Rep-April 26MarylandDem/Rep-April 26PennsylvaniaDem/Rep-April 26Rhode IslandDem/Rep-----When the election campaign has been relatively quiet over the past week or so, Donald Trump has seen his chances of becoming the Republican nominee, and the president takes some significant hits. There could be several factors, but Trump's controversial comments toward abortion likely played a big role in the decline in numbers. On March 24, Trump was -400 to become the nominee and +175 to become the next POTUS, but those numbers have dropped to -140 and +400 since April 4. Trump's tumble in the odds committee saw a surge to John Kasich's third place, as the Ohio governor moved from the other side for beters to setting up some tightly connected lines with his Republican colleagues. All-and-all, Hillary Clinton remains the frontrunner for the prospect of becoming the next president, a position she has held firmly for some time. Follow Democrat Bernie Sanders has seen a small jump in his chances of moving to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.2016 U.S. presidential election - Next PRESIDENT USAHillary Clinton -225Donald Trump +400Bernie Sanders +700Ted Cruz +1000John Kasich +1200Odds from April 4 in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -900Bernie Sanders +500Odds from 4 October 2016 April in the US presidential election in Bovada2016 - Republican presidential candidateDonald Trump -140Ted Cruz +200John Kasich +450Odds April at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerApril 5WisconsinDem/RepSanders/CruzApril 8ColoradoRep-April 9WyomingDem-April 19New YorkDem/Rep-April 26ConnecticutDem/Rep-April 26DelawareDem/Rep-April 26MarylandDem/Rep-April 26PennsylvaniaDem/Rep-April 26Rhode IslandDem/Rep-----Bernie Sanders swept all three Democratic primaries on March 26. Sanders won Alaska, Hawaii and Washington while winning 70% or more of the vote in each state. That means Sanders has now won five of the last six states of the Democratic and climbed within 300 Clinton delegates. Sanders had +700 for the Democratic nomination the day before his 26th birthday. Sanders also had a significant boost in his chances of becoming a POTUS, but Clinton is still the front-runner. With Republicans taking a few weeks off between their primaries, there has been no movement in those markets with Donald Trump heavily favored to win the party nomination. The month of April is a relatively slow month in the nomination race with only four states going to the pools in the first three weeks. However, one of these states will be New York. Work will hit the polls on April 19.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -225Donald Trump +225Bernie Sanders +900Ted Cruz +200J 28.6 US presidential election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -900Bernie Sanders +500Odds from 28 October 2017 (10 September) in the US presidential election in Bovada2016 - At BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerApril 5WisconsinDem/Rep-April 8ColoradoRep-April 9WyomingDem-April 19New YorkDem/Rep-April 26ConnecticutDem/Rep-April 26DelawareDem/Rep-April 26MarylandDem/Rep-April 26PennsylvaniaDem/Rep-April 26Rhode IslandDem/Rep-----Bernie Sanders continues to move closer to the race for the Democratic nomination on March 22 as the senator from Vermont claimed dominant victories in both Idaho and Utah on March 22. [On March 30th]. Overall, Sanders has done some groundwork on Hillary Clinton, but the delegate count in Idaho and Utah pales in comparison to the number in Arizona, which Clinton won by nearly 20 percent. Because of these gains in delegate count, Sanders made some moves on the books, and "The Bern" switched from an undersized +1,000 to earn the nomination to +700. Clinton saw odds drop from -2,500 to -1,500 after three statewide votes on March 22. Republicans had two states taking all the winners on March 22, with Donald Trump winning Arizona and Ted Cruz taking Utah. Although Trump received 18 delegates more than Cruz, the big win in the Beehive State saw the Texas senator rise in the prospect of becoming a candidate in the presidential outlook as well. Overall, Clinton is still the big -200 favorite to be residing at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue with the prevailing thought that she's winning the Democratic nomination. The primary season may see a bit of a write-off close March, as Democrats will compete in three states on the 26th and the Republican Party is over by April 5.2016 U.S. presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -200Donald Trump +175Bernie Sanders +1200Ted Cruz +1600John Kasich +2000Odds from 24.6 US presidential election - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1500Bernie Sanders +700Odds from 24 October March 15 in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - Republican presidential candidateDonald Trump -400Ted Cruz +400John Kasich +900Odds from March 24 at BovadaUpcoming presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMarch 15FloridaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 15IllinoisDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 15Northern Mariana IslandsRep/TrumpMarch 15North CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 15OhioDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 15South CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 15TennesseeDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 15VirginiaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 15WisconsinDem/RepClinton/Trump-----March 8 was a huge day for Bernie Sanders as the Democrat managed to win Michigan despite most projections giving him virtually a chance of taking the state of Wolverine. Even though he lost overwhelmingly, Hillary Clinton on the same day, Sanders' victory in the key Midwest state was a major blow to his campaign as the senator from Vermont proved he could win in that area of the country. Support for potential Republican nominee Donald Trump continued as the real estate mogul took Michigan, Hawaii and Mississippi as he finished second in Idaho on Tuesday. But the biggest story coming out of the Republican Party was the continuing fall from Marco Rubio's graces. After a time when he was viewed as a legitimate presidential candidate, Rubio barely got enough support to claim any delegate (a candidate needs at least 15 percent state support to claim one delegate in Michigan or Mississippi). Because Sanders claims victory, the gap between him and Clinton to win the Democratic nomination has narrowed in Bovada. Sanders moved from +700 to +500 the following March 8. The biggest mover in the Republican camp is Rubio, who saw his numbers to win the nomination (+2000) and become the next president (+5000) to make a big jump. Although there will be polls in relatively small areas of D.C, Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands on Saturday, the next big day of primaries comes on March 15th. Florida, Illinois, Missouri, North Carolina and Ohio are heading to their booths this Tuesday. Florida and Ohio will be especially important for the Republican Party because Rubio is from the Sunshine State and John Kasich is from the Buckeye State. A loss in their home states will likely spell doom for either candidate.2016 US Presidential Election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -190Donald Trump +200Bernie Sanders +1000Ted Cruz +200John Kasich +2000Marco Rubio +600Mitt Romney +7500Odds as of March 14 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic Presidential NomineeHillary Clinton -1000Bernie Sanders +500Joe Biden +2500Odds as of March 14 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Republican Presidential NomineeDonald Trump -400Ted Cruz +600John Kasich +600Marco Rubio +3300Mitt Romney +5000Odds as of March 14 at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMarch 5KansasDem/RepSanders/CruzMarch 5KentuckyRep/TrumpMarch 5LouisianaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 5MaineRep/CruzMarch 5NebraskaSandersMarch 6MaineDem/SandersMarch 6Puerto RicoRep/RubioMarch 6HawaiiRep/TrumpMarch 6IdahoRep/CruzMarch 6IllinoisDem/RepSanders/TrumpMarch 6MississippiDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6North CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6OhioDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6South CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6TennesseeDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6VirginiaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6WisconsinDem/RepClinton/Trump-----March 8 was a huge day for Bernie Sanders as the Democrat managed to win Michigan despite most projections giving him virtually a chance of taking the state of Wolverine. Even though he lost overwhelmingly, Hillary Clinton on the same day, Sanders' victory in the key Midwest state was a major blow to his campaign as the senator from Vermont proved he could win in that area of the country. Support for potential Republican nominee Donald Trump continued as the real estate mogul took Michigan, Hawaii and Mississippi as he finished second in Idaho on Tuesday. But the biggest story coming out of the Republican Party was the continuing fall from Marco Rubio's graces. After a time when he was viewed as a legitimate presidential candidate, Rubio barely got enough support to claim any delegate (a candidate needs at least 15 percent state support to claim one delegate in Michigan or Mississippi). Because Sanders claims victory, the gap between him and Clinton to win the Democratic nomination has narrowed in Bovada. Sanders moved from +700 to +500 the following March 8. The biggest mover in the Republican camp is Rubio, who saw his numbers to win the nomination (+2000) and become the next president (+5000) to make a big jump. Although there will be polls in relatively small areas of D.C, Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands on Saturday, the next big day of primaries comes on March 15th. Florida, Illinois, Missouri, North Carolina and Ohio are heading to their booths this Tuesday. Florida and Ohio will be especially important for the Republican Party because Rubio is from the Sunshine State and John Kasich is from the Buckeye State. A loss in their home states will likely spell doom for either candidate.2016 US Presidential Election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -190Donald Trump +200Bernie Sanders +1000Ted Cruz +200John Kasich +2000Marco Rubio +600Mitt Romney +7500Odds as of March 14 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic Presidential NomineeHillary Clinton -1000Bernie Sanders +500Joe Biden +2500Odds as of March 14 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Republican Presidential NomineeDonald Trump -400Ted Cruz +600John Kasich +600Marco Rubio +3300Mitt Romney +5000Odds as of March 14 at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMarch 5KansasDem/RepSanders/CruzMarch 5KentuckyRep/TrumpMarch 5LouisianaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 5MaineRep/CruzMarch 5NebraskaDem/SandersMarch 6MaineDem/SandersMarch 6Puerto RicoRep/RubioMarch 6HawaiiRep/TrumpMarch 6IdahoRep/CruzMarch 6IllinoisDem/RepSanders/TrumpMarch 6MississippiDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6North CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6OhioDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6South CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6TennesseeDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6VirginiaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6WisconsinDem/RepClinton/Trump-----Super Saturday saw front-runners Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton maintain their leads within their respective parties but not without taking some losses. Ted Cruz won both Kansas and Maine on March 5 while claiming more delegates than Trump. Bernie took Democratic primaries, but still ranks second behind Clinton in total delegates. Over the coming days, there are several primaries that will play a major factor in the race for the presidential nominee. Democratic candidates will have big battles in Michigan (147 delegates), Florida (246) and Illinois (182). With Clinton almost halfway to winning delegates, she needs to become the official nominee, and big victories in those three states could put a nail in Sanders' presidential coffin. For Republicans, there are five states that go to the polls in March that are victorious. These five states combine for 301 delegates, and Florida itself makes 79. The Sunshine State is going to be make-or-break for Marco Rubio as a loss in his home state will almost guarantee his campaign suspension sooner rather than later.2016 US Presidential Election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -200Donald Trump +250Ted Cruz +1000Bernie Sanders +1600John Kasich +2500Marco Rubio +3300Mitt Romney +6600Odds as of March 8 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Democratic Presidential NomineeHillary Clinton -1500Bernie Sanders +700Odds as of March 8 at Bovada2016 US Presidential Election - Republican Presidential NomineeDonald Trump -250Ted Cruz +300Marco Rubio +900John Kasich +900Mitt Romney +3300Odds as of March 8 at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMarch 5KansasDem/RepSanders/CruzMarch 5KentuckyRep/TrumpMarch 5LouisianaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 5MaineRep/CruzMarch 5NebraskaDem/SandersMarch 6MaineDem/SandersMarch 6Puerto RicoRep/RubioMarch 6HawaiiRep/TrumpMarch 6IdahoRep/CruzMarch 6IllinoisDem/RepSanders/TrumpMarch 6MississippiDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6North CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6OhioDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6South CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6TennesseeDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6VirginiaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6WisconsinDem/RepClinton/Trump-----Super Tuesday is behind us and it appears that we have not lost any presidential candidates. The vote passed largely as expected, with Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton winning seven of the 11 states each. Both Trump and Clinton have significant leads in delegates, but they still have work to do before achieving enough to close out the official nomination. Ted Cruz had a surprisingly strong showing because he won three states, the most of any Republican not named "Trump." Cruz dominated Texas and neighboring Oklahoma before later shocking many puns by picking up Alaska.Marco Rubio managed to pick up one state Tuesday, his first victory of the primary season. However, despite his claims of the inevitable opposite, Rubio's last real bastion of hope seems to be his home state of Florida.Bernie Sanders has had a better performance than many expected, but still struggles mightily to reach minority voters with his victories predominantly Caucasian state. Sanders will have to expand his sphere of influence if he truly expects to win the nomination over Clinton.2016 US presidential election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -200Donald Trump +1400Marco Rubio +1400Bernie Sanders +2000John Kasich +2000Ted Cruz +2500Michael Bloomberg +5 March in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1500Bernie Sanders +700Odds from 4 March 2016 March in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - Republican presidential candidateDonald Trump -350Marco Rubio +1500Ted Cruz +900John March at BovadaUpcoming Presidential Primaries/CaucusesDateStatePartyWinnerMarch 5KansasDem/RepSanders/CruzMarch 5KentuckyRep/TrumpMarch 5LouisianaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 5MaineRep/CruzMarch 5NebraskaDem/SandersMarch 6MaineDem/SandersMarch 6Puerto RicoRep/RubioMarch 6HawaiiRep/TrumpMarch 6IdahoRep/CruzMarch 6IllinoisDem/RepSanders/TrumpMarch 6MississippiDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6North CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6OhioDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6South CarolinaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6TennesseeDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6VirginiaDem/RepClinton/TrumpMarch 6WisconsinDem/RepClinton/Trump-----UPDATE: Results begin arriving for Super Tuesday votes. OddsShark will add results and release new odds when information is available. Hillary Clinton heads into Super Tuesday ride on a huge wave of momentum after her dominant victory in South Carolina. The former secretary of state took 73.5 percent of the vote and claimed 39 of the 53 delegates in the Palmetto State. After that huge performance for Clinton, she moved on to the overwhelming -2000 front-runner to earn the Democrats' presidential nomination over Bernie Sanders (+750). While the loss itself wasn't a big blow for Sanders, the victory was huge for Clinton that saw her opponent gain the upper hand in previous primaries. Despite Chris Christie's official support, Donald Trump's chances of becoming the Republican nomination have not budged since Friday. Trump remains the heavy favorite at -400 with Marco Rubio coming in as the only candidate away from the real estate mogul. The big win in South Carolina also extended Clinton's lead to become the next president, as she moved from -140 the day before the primaries to -175 the day after. In all other presidential candidates, the odds fell slightly on Super Tuesday, in which 11 states will hold their primaries or caucuses for both parties. Can't you get enough American presidential prospects? Check out who are the favorites in each state on Super Tuesday.2016 U.S. Presidential Election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -175Donald Trump +175Marco Rubio +900Bernie Sanders +11200Michael Bloomberg +3300Ted Cruz +6600John Kasich +6600Odds of 29. February 15 in the US presidential election in Bovada2016 - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -2000Bernie Sanders +750Joe Biden +5000Odds from 29 October 2016 February 15 in the US presidential election in Bovada2016 - Republican presidential NomineeDonald Trump -400Marco Rubio +250Ted Cruz +3300John Kasich +4000Odds from 29 February in BovadaRecent and the upcoming presidential 10waDem/RepClinton/Cruz February 9News HampshireDem/RepSanders/Trump February 20NebraskaDem/RepClinton February 20South CarolinaRep/Trump February 20TennesseeDem/RepClinton February 27South CarolinaDem/Rep March 1ArkansasDem/RepMarch 1AlabamaDem/RepMarch 1LouisianaDem/RepMarch 1TexasDem/RepMarch 1VirginiaDem/RepMarch 1WisconsinDem/RepMarch 1ColoradoDem/RepMarch 1IdahoDem/RepMarch 1AlaskaRep/TrumpMarch 1GeorgiaDem/RepMarch 1MinnesotaDem/RepMarch 1MississippiDem/RepMarch 1North CarolinaDem/RepMarch 1TennesseeDem/RepMarch 1TexasDem/RepMarch 1VirginiaDem/RepMarch 1WisconsinDem/RepMarch 1ColoradoDem/RepMarch 1IdahoDem/RepMarch 1AlaskaRep/Trump-----UPDATE: Hillary Clinton won Saturday's Democratic primaries in South Carolina. OddsShark will update the odds ahead of the Super Tuesday vote when official lines are available. For more information on Super Tuesday odds, see here. Nevada marked Donald Trump's third consecutive victory, as the business mogul picked up more than 45 percent of the vote in the state's primaries. Trump still looks like a legitimate frontrunner for Republicans, with Marco Rubio and Ted Cruz battling for a far second place. This was the last stretch for Republican candidates before Super Tuesday when 11 states will hold their primaries. With another dominant performance, Trump became the front-runner to win the Republican nomination by -300. The only other Republican candidate lower than +4000 is Marco Rubio, who is listed at +200 after Nevada.With Republicans now looking to 1. On the same night that Nevada Republican primaries Hillary Clinton and Bernie Sanders took the stage in South Carolina in their last major appearance ahead of the June 27 primaries in that state. Sanders has been vocal about his support for Barack Obama and highly critical of how Republicans painted the incumbent. Clinton took a more personal approach while talking to the Black Lives Matter Movement and youth voters. We'll see exactly how the town hall affected voters when South Carolina went to the polling station saturday for his primaries. The town hall itself did not affect the odds as Clinton remained the -1,000 frontrunner to win the Democratic nomination. The biggest change for the former secretary of state came in her chances of becoming the next president as she moved from -140 the day before the primaries to -175 the day after. In all other presidential candidates, the odds fell slightly on Super Tuesday, in which 11 states will hold their primaries or caucuses for both parties. Can't you get enough American presidential prospects? Check out who are the favorites to be the next president.2016 US Presidential Election - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton -140Donald Trump +1600Marco Rubio +750Bernie Sanders +1000Michael Bloomberg +2500Ted Cruz +7500John Kasich +1000Odds of 26. February 15 in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1000Bernie Sanders +400Joe Biden +2500Odds from February 26th in US presidential election - Republican presidential candidateDonald Trump -400Marco Rubio +250Ted Cruz +4000John Kasich +4000Odds from 26 October February 15 in the US presidential election in BovadaRecent and upcoming presidential primariesDateStatePartyWinnerFebruary 10waDem/RepClinton/Cruz February 9News HampshireDem/RepSanders/Trump Feb 20NebraskaDem/RepClinton February 20South CarolinaRep/Trump February 20TennesseeDem/RepClinton February 27South CarolinaDem/Rep March 1ArkansasDem/RepMarch 1AlabamaDem/RepMarch 1LouisianaDem/RepMarch 1TexasDem/RepMarch 1VirginiaDem/RepMarch 1WisconsinDem/RepMarch 1ColoradoDem/RepMarch 1IdahoDem/RepMarch 1AlaskaRep/Trump-----UPDATE: Donald Trump gave away another landslide victory last night in Nevada. OddsShark will have updated odds as soon as the official lines hit the boards. The next Republican primaries will be held on March 1st and Super Tuesday. Donald Trump is already predicting a showdown between himself and Hillary Clinton to see who's moved to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. The real estate mogul made the claim after passing through South Carolina to easily win the Republican primaries there and after Clinton won a hard-fier victory in Nevada. The books seem to agree with both Clinton and Trump, since they are both favorites to win their party's nomination. Trump is -125 to claim the Republican nomination after receiving nearly 33 percent of the vote in the Palmetto State. When you factor in more Republican candidates suspending their campaign, most recently Jeb Bush, Trump finds himself a legitimate party nominee. Clinton, on the other hand, clashed with Bernie Sanders. The former secretary of state spent a lot of money and campaigned hard to just try out a Nevada victory over Sanders. However, Clinton firmly understands the ever-important superdelegates, which has her as the massive -1000 front-runner to gain the Democratic nominee. The odds of becoming the next POTUS still sit firmly in Clinton's favor, as she is currently even money. Next closest are Trump at +250 and Marco Rubio at +400. On June 23rd, the Republican Party will be the first to win the nomination. Democrats won't run again until February 27th, when they go to South Carolina. 2016 US Presidential Election - Next US PresidentHillary Clinton EVENDonald Trump +250Marco Rubio +400Bernie Sanders +750Michael Bloomberg +2000Ted Cruz +2300John Kasich +5000Odds from 22 February in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - Democratic presidential candidateHillary Clinton -1000Bernie Sanders +400Joe Biden +2500Odds from 22 October 2016. February 15 in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - 5Ted Cruz +1400John Kasich +2500Odds from 22 February in BovadaRecent and upcoming presidential primariesDateStatePartyWinner February 9News HampshireDem/RepSanders/Trump February 20NebraskaDem/RepClinton February 20South CarolinaRep/Trump February 23NevadaDem/Rep February 27South CarolinaDem-March 1 AlabamaDem/Rep-March 1ArkansasDem/Rep-March 1GeorgiaDem/Rep-March 1IdahoDem/Rep-March 1LouisianaDem/Rep-March 1MassachusettsDem/Rep-March 1MinnesotaDem/Rep-March 1MississippiDem/Rep-March 1North CarolinaDem/Rep-March 1TennesseeDem/Rep-March 1TexasDem/Rep-March 1VermontDem/Rep-March 1VirginiaDem/Rep-March 1WisconsinDem/Rep-----UPDATE: Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump were declared winners in their Nevada and South Carolina caucuses Saturday night. OddsShark will update the president's odds after the official lines hit the boards. The next Tuesday candidates is Tuesday as Republicans moved to Nevada. The New Hampshire primary passed largely as expected with Bernie Sanders and Donald Trump emerging victorious from their parties. Sanders received a whopping 64 percent support from Democrats, and Trump won the Republican race by more than 100 votes. The next round of U.S. presidential primaries is scheduled for this weekend, with Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump the ones sitting as front-runners to advance to win their party's nomination. Clinton is the -130 favorite in the Democratic Nevada caucus on Saturday over challenger Bernie Sanders (-110), while Super Tuesday will see a massive -10,000 chance of claiming victory Saturday in South Carolina. Despite recent surges in the poll, Sanders has not seen his chances of becoming the next president or winning the Democratic nomination move at all. Hillary Clinton remains the odds-on favorite to get a nod from Democrats, but she saw her chances of becoming the next POTUS drop to +115. With Trump's huge victory in New Hampshire, the businessman saw his chances of moving dramatically into the Rise of the White House as he jumped over Sanders and Marco Rubio to take second place. Trump's success paired with Rubio's failures in New Hampshire pushed Donald into the odds-on front-runner to win the Republican nomination. The most surprising candidate to come from New Hampshire was John Kasich. The Ohio governor finished second and easily overtook Ted Cruz, Jeb Bush and Rubio. But Kasich's campaign has invested most of his remaining money in New Hampshire in hopes of pushing him forward. The next primaries will take place on 20 October. The two parties will alternate these states in the days ahead, with Nevada Republicans at 23 and Democrats in South Carolina in THE US presidential election 27.2016 - Next President of the United StatesHillary Clinton +115Donald Trump +250Bernie Sanders +400Marco Rubio +1800Ted Cruz +1800Jeb Bush +2200John Kasich +2200Michael Bloomberg +2500Odds from 17 February in the US presidential election Bovada2016 - Presidential candidateHillary Clinton -400Bernie Sanders +2500Odds of 17. February 15 in the US presidential election Bovada2016 .00Ted Cruz +900Jeb Bush +900John Kasich +1200Odds from February 17 on BovadaRecent and upcoming presidential primariesDateStatePartyWinner February 10waDem/RepClinton/Cruz February 9News HampshireDem/RepSanders/Trump February 20NebraskaDem/RepClinton February 20South CarolinaRep/Trump February 23NevadaDem/Rep February 27South CarolinaDem-----Update: Polls are now closed in New Hampshire and Bernie Sanders and Donald Trump have been declared winners in the primaries in that state. OddsShark will update this article after new official lines hit the boards. As of February 3, both Trump and Sanders were the front-runners with their new Hampshire races. Between coin flips and surprise coups, the Iowa caucuses have had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not the frontrunner for the chances of becoming the next president. Even though she is still the money, and Marco Rubio is facing the heavy favorite to win the Republican nomination. Clinton and Bernie Sanders have both been heavily impacted by the Iowa caucus. The Iowa caucus has had a huge impact in the standings and betting odds for presidential nominations and eventually POTUS. For the first time since the outlook was announced, Hillary Clinton is not